Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 28 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold and wet with rain and hill snow.

Today:
Cold with persistent heavy rain and hill snow during the morning. This will slowly ease but it will remain wet with further outbreaks of rain and drizzle throughout the day. Hill snow will steadily turn back to rain. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Tonight:
Briefly drier through the evening before further heavy rain arrives and persists overnight. Low cloud will be extensive over hills and coasts. Remaining cold but frost free. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Friday:
Breezier on Friday with rain gradually becoming more showery but turning increasingly wintry. A few brighter interludes are possible, but it will feel cold in the breeze. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Cold but often sunny through the weekend and Monday with a few wintry showers possible, mainly early on Saturday and again through Monday. Widespread overnight frosts.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.